

South Gloucestershire Dementia Action Alliance

Want to make your area a better place to be if you are living with dementia?

SGDAA is an alliance of organisations who are working to become more dementia friendly, and help our local communities become better places for people living with dementia.

Do you want YOUR community to be more dementia friendly?

You can make a difference in your community. From small steps like getting articles in local publications, or putting leaflets around, to larger steps like setting up a local action group or a memory café, every effort helps.

We are able to offer you support and advice to get started, and network you with other people doing similar things. Get in touch – we will be really pleased to hear from you.
